Criminal law is set in place when a society decides that a certain action or conduct should be prohibited. This can be something as extreme as murder to as something as simple as public drunkenness. These laws are put in place because there is a societal belief that these actions are dangerous for citizens or damaging to society as a whole.

What Is the Purpose of Criminal Law: Understanding the Basics

Put simply, criminal law is the body of law dealing with crimes. Criminal law deals with actions that the law has prohibited. It differs from other types of law because criminal cases are filed, investigated, and prosecuted by the state. Perhaps the closest analogy in civil law is tort law, which also deals with actions that the law says are wrong.
